

Identifying Types of Information.
What were the structures and functions within colonial families?

Teaching With Documents
by Peter Pappas www.peterpappas.com

People living in the past left many clues about their lives. These clues include both primary and secondary sources . These documents contain information about how their lives were lived.

Review the documents included in this lesson and sort them into four groups based on the type of information they give you about people lives. For each item write down what you learned and the document it came from.

Two of the subject areas have been identified. You may select subjects for the other two groups.

Information about people – age, gender,
marital status

Information about how people made a living

Information about _____

Information about _____